Create a clean heart in me, O God.
-Ps. 51, 12.

Dear Brothers and Sisters in Christ,

This Sunday presents us with the happy coincidence of also being the traditional commemoration of St. Patrick, the Apostle of Ireland. In the American Church, normally there is great attention given to the feast when it falls on a Friday in Lent since the requirement to abstain from meat on Friday conflicts terribly with the tradition of eating corned beef. This year, we have the dual pleasure of moving along with Lent and celebrating the Lord's day while also having a deep mindfulness of the saint who inspired, and continues to inspire, so many in the depths of our Christian faith. Fulfilling his teaching responsibility, the bishop preaches down through the ages to us well:

So I'll never stop giving thanks to my God, who kept me faithful in the time of my slavery. I can today with confidence offer my soul to Christ my Lord as a living victim. He is the one who defended me in all my difficulties. I can say: Who am I, Lord, or what is my calling, that you have worked with me with such divine presence? This is how I come to praise and magnify your name among the nations all the time, wherever I am, not only in good times but in the difficult times too. Whatever comes about for me, good or bad, I ought to accept them equally and give thanks to God. He has shown me that I can put my faith in him without wavering and without end. However ignorant I am, he has heard me, so that in these late days I can dare to undertake such a holy and wonderful work. In this way I can imitate somewhat those whom the Lord foretold would announce his gospel in witness to all nations before the end of the world. (Confessio, 34.)

May the joy of our Christian tradition be strong this day as we prepare for the coming solemnities of the weeks ahead.

May God bless you,

Fr. Ryan
