Pastor's Letter

Thus have I gazed toward you in the sanctuary to see your power and your glory.

-Psalm 63,2

Dear Brothers and Sisters in Christ,

As we continue the Church's tradition of using the month of November for prayers for the deceased, it is wise to meditate upon the power of prayer.

Essentially conversation with the Lord, it is important to recognize the power of the capacity we possess in our Christian souls. Writing on this Sunday's Gospel, St. Columban ties our Christian ability into the lesson of Christ for this Sunday. On being prepared to meet the Lord he composes a useful prayer that places us in the Gospel allegory: "We knock on the door: show yourself to us, our loving Savior, that we may know you and love you alone; that we may desire you alone and contemplate you day and night. Inspire us with the love that you, our God, deserve. Let love invade our whole inner selves and possess them wholly, filling out thoughts with you so that we may love naught but you, the eternal One. Then the many waters of our world will not extinguish our love." (Instructions on Compunction, 12.)

The power and ability of the Christian soul is evident in the expression of the desire to draw close to God. Incorporated into the vigilance of the wise servants of the Gospel, let us endeavor to pray well in the spirit that values and honors the soul that seeks the heavenly reward for a life of goodness and holiness.

May God bless you,

Fr. Ryan
